NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the TRADE MARKS of the MAN LONG (隆昌) FIRM—Manufacturers

As a startling proof of the growing popularity of the Post Office in India, it may be mentioned that the Post Office lately received a request from a Brahmin priest in the city, suggesting that they should undertake the conveyance of the ashes of dead Hindus by parcel post to Hindur. The Brahmin gentleman volunteered the assurance that, if the Department could guarantee that the ashes would be safely delivered into the waters of the sacred stream by Brahmin postmen, a large reward from the temple would be anticipated.

The following gives a gloomy picture of the state of the shipping trade in England—So overcrowded is the fleet with vessels that the commissionaire have decided that there is no room for more, except about Newcastle bridge. For many weeks past the harbour-masters have had great difficulty in providing accommodation for the continual influx of unemployed vessels without incurring the cost of the river. The Jarrow crowd is excessive. Both the Tyne and Humber contain a large number of idle ships. The fleet on the North and South coasts are so large that it is impossible to find a fairway of the river, and can receive no further additions.

Most people have heard how Professor Blackie's announcement that he would be pleased to meet his "class" at a certain hour was by someone perpetrated at Brighton. The conductor of a recent concert there announced that his "Concert Class" would perform a selection. This printer however, by placing an advertisement in the "Standard" has described the programme with the information that the "concerted" class would give the performance.

The Press Correspondent at Constantinople gives points to his countrymen. St. Petersburg. The circulation of the Bible, which would appear, is only to be permitted after it has been expurgated and amended by that official, who insists (for instance) that the text should read, "Jesus Christ was sent into the world to save Christian sinners." This is worse, a great deal, than the "blackening" process. Other absurd restrictions are sought to be imposed on the edition of the Christian religion within the Sultan's dominion, such as the omission from the list of lessons taught in the Sunday schools of the story of Joseph being sold by his brethren. The Sultan's word is very properly protesting against all this.

"Feeling on remembrance of the past" is but sorry antecedent for a lover; much less of so sentimental a thing as an insect. But the creature allied to below must have been uncommonly fit, if it flies, he measured by powers of survival. However, if between the two mistletoe and the insect, the insect is the more valuable, that might account for their tenacity of life under unfavorable circumstances. For "Speed" says in the "Two Gentlemen of Verona" "Love is the best of us." The insect case is the point is thus related in an Indian paper—a correspondent, a well-known medical officer in the N. W. Provinces, a few days ago forwarded an up-country paper a most extraordinary specimen enclosed in a small envelope. The insect was a small fly, and was placed on the glass of the microscope with a point of a pin for the entertainment of some children. "I thought," writes our correspondent, "no more about the subject and put the microscope in my desk, and left for the hills. About a week ago I happened to walk to see the microscope, and looked through to see if it was clean. To my astonishment there were the insect lying well, and apparently very happy, and this after having been in the microscope for four months, on January 1891. I had no intention of keeping the insect imprisoned for so long, but there is the fact. They have been between the two glasses without food or drink of any kind, picked away at a drover for four months. We may add that a trying passage through the Post Office from Bombay, in exceedingly cold weather, has apparently not impaired the vitality of the insect; they are still still, apparently as lively as ever. We leave to entomologists to decide how the insect has lived for fourteen months on the memory of a stillion chess.
